SECTION 4: SCOPE OF WORK

Rapid urbanization and industrialization have increased the burden of solid waste management in Maharashtra, posing significant challenges to maintaining air quality and reducing greenhouse gas emissions. Organic waste, which constitutes a substantial portion of municipal solid waste, when improperly managed, leads to methane emissions, a potent greenhouse gas contributing to climate change. In line with the Swachh Bharat Mission and the National Clean Air Programme (NCAP), the Maharashtra Pollution Control Board (MPCB) aims to promote sustainable waste management practices through decentralized composting systems.

As part of its broader commitment to ecosystem preservation and air quality improvement, the Board has initiated a project for the procurement, commissioning, Warranty and CAMC and Operation and Maintenance Services of 30 units of 1.5 tonnes per day (TPD) capacity In-vessel Solarized Mechanical Composting Technology Machines integrated into vehicles. These integrated vehicles shall be delivered at the locations suggested by MPCB.

In-vessel composting is recognized as an effective, eco-friendly method for treating organic waste, producing nutrient-rich compost while minimizing environmental pollution. The integration of solarized mechanical composting technology into mobile units (vehicles) provides an innovative, flexible solution for decentralized waste treatment, especially in areas where the setting up of stationary composting plants may be impractical. This initiative not only addresses the growing organic waste management challenges but also contributes to the reduction of methane emissions and the improvement of urban air quality.
